

Covid-19 : Echosens general communication

Paris, March 18th 2020

As the Covid-19 crisis is further expanding across the world, Echosens is deeply committed to help fighting against the virus.

As a global company whose mission is to assess and manage liver health, to protect people against chronic liver diseases, we are now and during the time needed extending our mission to protect our employees, customers, partners, and communities against Covid-19.

Consequently:

- Our headquarter in Paris, our subsidiaries in UK, Germany, Spain and our manufacturing and logistics facilities have been shut down on Wednesday March 18th for at least 14 days and until further notice.
- The Echosens headquarter team in Paris and subsidiaries are already operating from home.
- Interactions with healthcare professionals, scientists, and physicians will be strictly restricted. We are lucky to partner with them and in this very difficult period we would like to express our full support and grateful recognition.

We remain committed to continue our activities the best we can, to support our customers, to maintain team spirit and cohesion with our employees, with the hope that in a near future, we can all get back to changing liver health together.

Please keep you and your family safe during these challenging times.
